²See Sermons, 95.

³The manuscript text of this sermon has survived in two drafts (MARC, MA 1977/597/4 & MA 1977/608/1). A transcription is available in Sermons, 110–22.

⁴John Wesley records that Charles actually preached 3–4 times in Cowes between late Oct. and Dec. 10; see JW, Journal (Nov. 20, 1735), Works, 28:140.

⁵See Sermons, 107.

⁶“At ten this morning I began the full service to about a dozen women whom I had got together, intending to continue it and only to read a few prayers to the men before they went to work. I also expounded the second lesson with some boldness, as I had a few times before.”

⁷The manuscript text of this sermon, which Charles copied from his brother John, has survived (MARC, MA 1977/608/4). A transcription is available in Sermons, 306–13; and JW, Works, 4:373–77.

¹¹See Sermons, 316.

¹²“I had now so far recovered my strength, that I could again expound the lesson.”

¹³Expounding the lesson.

¹⁴“According to our agreement, my brother set forward for Frederica, and I took charge of Savannah in his absence. The hardest duty imposed on me was the expounding the lesson morning and evening to one hundred hearers. I was surprised at my own confidence, and acknowledged it not my own.”

¹⁵See Sermons, 308.

¹Duke Street Chapel was a small private chapel in the parish of St. Margaret, founded in 1709 in a wing of the house once owned by Lord High Chancellor Jefferies. It overlooked St. James Park, at Story's gate, standing near what is now the corner of Birdcage Walk and Horse Guards Avenue. It was torn down about 1900. See William Stow, Remarks on London (London: T. Norris & H. Tracy, 1722), 98–99.

²See Sermons, 362.

³Wesley mistakenly records the year as 1736 in this and the following entry. Under the old calendar the year had changed in late March.

⁴There are several villages near Oxford (where Wesley was staying) with the name Aston (or close verbal cognates). It is unclear which he was indicating.

⁵See Sermons, 308.

⁶There is no "Wickham" in the area near Oxford. Charles may have been referring to Wytham, about 3 mi NW of Oxford. John Wesley preached in Wytham the following year.

⁷See Sermons, 308.

⁸See Sermons, 308.

⁹See Sermons, 125.

¹⁰See Sermons, 125.

¹¹The manuscript text of this sermon, which Charles copied from his brother John, has survived (MARC, DDCW 8/13). A transcription is available in Sermons, 348–59; and JW, Works, 4:331–45.

¹Charles was reading his brother's sermon Salvation by Faith; see JW, Works, 1:117–130. John preached this sermon at St. Mary's church, Oxford, on June 11, 1738, and published it soon after (London: Hutton, 1738).

²Wesley says he preached on the "second lesson."

³Wesley does not identify his text in the MS Journal for this day, but he had been preaching on the assigned lessons and John 1 was assigned for this day. See the reference to those who had earlier heard his sermon on the text "The voice of one crying in the wilderness, prepare ye the way of the Lord" (John 1:23) in the MS Journal listing for July 21.

⁴The manuscript text of this sermon has survived (MARC, MA 1977/597/5). A transcription is available in Sermons, 130–51.

⁵See Sermons, 132.

⁶See Sermons, 132.

⁷See Sermons, 132; indicates he preached twice that day.

⁸See Sermons, 132; indicates he preached twice that day.

⁹Wesley began writing this sermon on July 31, 1738; it has apparently not survived.

²⁴See Sermons, 132.

²⁵This may be the occasion when Thomas Hogg first heard CW preach. As he describes it, “You was explaining the seventh chapter of the Epistle to the Romans, which was to me like a man speaking in an unknown tongue. You was endeavouring to convince us of sin, and showing the difference betwixt the law and gospel. You told us what we were by nature, described the motions of sin stirring in us, and the blessings we received by Jesus Christ.”

²⁴He preached on the "second lesson."

²⁵Weavers' Hall, an old hall (since demolished) of the Weavers' Guild in Temple Street, was a regular preaching point for Charles and John Wesley.

²⁶A park near the center of the city.

²⁷Rose Green was "a plain on top of a high hill", about 2 mi NE of Kingswood; cf. JW letter to James Hutton, April 1, 1739 (JW, Works, 25:628).

²⁸For a discussion of the site of the Brick-yard, see H. J. Foster, "Some Bristol Methodist Notes," WHS 2 (1900): 3–8.

²⁹This was a room recently completed in the Horsefair, near St. James's churchyard, which was large enough to contain the societies that met at Nicholas and Baldwin streets. When it was remodeled in 1748, it became common to call it the "New Room." That label will be used consistently in this register.

The word seemed as spoken to me. I knew not where I was. For a short time I felt such a heft go of my heart that I cannot express it. I was assured the Christ died for me."

[CW's MS Journal has a four month lapse at this point]

³²Joseph Williams of Kidderminster used a business trip to Bristol as the occasion to hear CW preach. He wrote up an extended description of Wesley's style and content in this sermon, which he intended to publish in the Gentleman's Magazine as a sympathetic portrayal of Methodism. He sent a copy to Wesley for approval. The account never appeared in the Gentleman's Magazine, perhaps because Wesley was not comfortable with its laudatory tone. The manuscript survives (MARC, DDP1 1/92) and can be consulted in Wesleyan Methodist Magazine 51 (1828): 383–85.

³³Also known as 'Bury Field' in Wesley's day; Bearfield is now the northern district of Bradford-on-Avon.

³⁴He was beginning a series.

³⁵CW says this was his first time preaching at night in the open air.

³⁶1742 Letter of Naomi Thomas to CW (MARC, MA 1977/501), "One time in the bowling Green you preached on those words, "I in them and they in me," which came with such power to my soul that then I had redemption in the blood of Christ, the forgiveness of my sins, and filled with such joy that I cannot express."

¹⁵“To the Society I described the stillness of the first Christians (Acts 2:42), who continued in the Apostles' doctrine, and in fellowship, and in breaking of bread, and in prayers.”

¹⁶Journal letter covering June 19–21, 1740 (MARC, MA 1977/503 Box 5, file 5).

¹⁷This was a large room near Weavers' Hall, which the Wesley brothers used for meetings when they could not meet in the latter.

¹⁸1742 Letter by Elizabeth Halfpenny to CW (MARC, MA 1977/501), “At the time you expounded at Rose Green, I thought it was a very unsuitable chapter which you was upon, which was the sixteenth of Ezekiel, and was much offended at it, but before you had done the Lord was pleased to set to his seal and I received forgiveness of sins. The words came with so great power that I seemed to be lifted off the ground, and never since have I fallen in doubts of my justification.”

¹⁹Wesley mentions multiple exhortations in this period on the topic of predestination.

²⁰He was beginning a series.

²⁴The Cupolas was a village surrounding a copper-smelting works 3 miles east of Bristol city center, just south of Kingswood, overlooking the River Avon (now Troopers Hill nature reserve). See JW to James Hutton (July 2, 1739), Works, 25:666.

²⁵Journal letter covering July 19–Aug. 2, 1740 (MARC, MA 1977/503 Box 5, file 4).

²⁶Ebenezer Hewlett, A Vindication of Archbishop Tillotson and the Author of 'The Whole Duty of Man' from the censures of ... Mr. [Charles] Wesley (Bristol: for the author, 1740), 13–14. [summarizes points in exposition of Acts 6:8:]

First, that justification and pardon of sins are of the same import.

Secondly, that pardon of sins are by faith and not by repentance.

Thirdly, that God cannot forgive sins, but that Christ satisfied for the sins of all the whole world.

Fourthly, that after men are thus justified, they may notwithstanding finally fall away and be damned, taken from Nicholas, one of the seven deacons, verse 5.

Fifthly, that God will not pardon sins because men repent, but because they believe.

Sixthly, that faith is the new nature, the power of God in them.

Seventhly, that Good works are not the cause of man's salvation, but the imputed righteousness of Christ is the only cause of it.

Eighthly, that the lowest degree of the mark of a Christian is that they know their sins are forgiven.

²⁷“One, pestered with the predestinarians, desired me to expound Rom. 9.”

²⁸Charles became sick and was unable to preach after this for about six weeks.

²⁹Anne Hodges' funeral sermon.

¹⁶Susannah Designe, manuscript journal covering 1741–42 (MARC, DDCW 9/2), pp. 26–27; she records that in the early morning service CW spoke “powerfully” on how things impossible for humans are possible for God (so it might be the parallel text in Mark 10:27 or Luke 18:27) and “the power of God accompanied the word and many souls rejoiced in hope of deliverance from all sin.”

¹⁷CW, A Sermon Preached on Sunday, April 4, 1742, before the University of Oxford (London: Strahan, 1742). Reproduced in Sermons, 211–24; and JW, Works, 1:142–58.

¹⁸*MS Journal* skips the last three months of 1741 and all of 1742. There is only one journal letter (September 23–October 2, 1742) and few other letters to help fill in this void. Several factors likely contributing to this lacuna. Significant time in early 1742 would have been devoted to preparing the sermon he preached on April 4 at Oxford. Then, in June 1742, Charles suffered the death of his close friend Robert Jones, and worked through his grief by composing an extended elegy. On July 30, 1742 he lost his mother Susanna as well. Finally, it appears that while Charles continued to minister in several settings through this year, he was struggling with a debilitating health condition, as he resorted to a transcriber for his writing (as noted in the Sept. 23, 1742 journal letter).

¹⁹Susannah Designe, manuscript journal covering 1741–42 (MARC, DDCW 9/2), p. 38; she comments that on this Good Friday CW “made three such excellent discourses—I saw others wounded and sympathizing [with] the suffering of my savior.”

²⁰Journal letter covering Sept. 23–Oct. 2, 1742 (MARC, DDCW 6/1).

²¹Charles writes “Tangate,” but surely means Sandgate—an area of Newcastle outside the walls, chiefly inhabited by keelmen and other common laborers. John Wesley had preached there on May 30.

²²Charles says “My audience at Tames was twice as large as before.” There is no Tames near Newcastle, and the best guess is that he is referring to Sandgate, where he preached the day before.

¹CW apparently kept a brief diary outline in shorthand, which he used when preparing the longer account in the MS Journal and journal letters. One of the few examples of such shorthand diary notes that has survived is in a manuscript collection of hymns, MS Clarke (MARC, MA 1977/561), p. 219. It covers May 16 – June 27, 1743. It will be referenced in notes when it adds clarifying information.

²Journal letter covering May 17–25, 1743 (MARC, DDCW 6/3).

³The vicar was Rev. Samuel Taylor (1711–72).

⁴CW was preaching in a church; this was the evening lesson.

⁵The shorthand diary calls it “the old parks.” Wesley refers to it in the journal letter here as “a garden” and on May 23 as “the orchard.”

⁷CW says "Expounded the gospel, as usual, and strongly avowed my inviolable attachment to the Church of England." This could mean he was preaching on Luke 15, the gospel lesson; but there is little evidence in surrounding records that he "usually" expounded the assigned gospel lesson.

⁸John Wesley had recently gained a long-term lease on this chapel on West Street, near the Seven Dials, which had been opened in 1700 to serve French Protestants (Huguenots) fleeing persecution in their homeland. The chapel had later come under the control of St. Clement Dane's parish and was rented out in support of poor widows.

⁹Journal letter covering July 11–29, 1743 (MARC, DDCW 6/4 – 6/9).

¹¹Verine is a family name in Cornwall, and “vellan” is used here to mean “mill.” Thus this may have been the name of a local mill, or a small hamlet surrounding such a mill. But no record of such has been found.

¹²The manuscript text of this sermon has survived in two drafts (MARC, MA 1977/597/6 & MA 1977/597/11). A transcription is available in Sermons, 270–76.

¹³The chapel stood on the west side of Meeting House Walk, an alley running south from Snowsfields a short distance east of Crosby Row. It had been built in 1736 by Elizabeth Ginn for the use of a Unitarian Baptist preacher, Sayer Rudd. When Rudd fell out of favor with his benefactress and congregation, the chapel was taken over by the Methodists, who occupied it for more than twenty years.

¹This chapel was built and endowed by Sir Abraham Ellison for the workmen at the copperworks founded by Abraham Elton and Gabriel Wayne in Conham.

²James Erskine heard this sermon and took exception to CW's suggestion that those who do not agree with the doctrine of "sinless perfection" in essence "plead for sin and Satan", to his suggestion that the Puritans did not teach sanctification, and to his implying that anyone who does not attain sinless perfection before death will not be saved. Erskine, Memorandum, April 23–25, 1745 (MARC, MA 1977/503, Box 4, file 19).

³Funeral sermon for Sister Rogers.

⁴Journal letter covering July 28–Aug. 12, 1745 (MARC, MA 1977/503 Box 5, file 5).

⁵Wesley had come to Bristol for the second “annual conference” of preachers in association with the Wesley brothers, held August 1–6.

⁶Wesley sprained his ankle severely on August 10. He agreed to confine himself to Fonmon Castle, to let it heal, but says he preached two times a day through September 8. When he then returned to Cardiff he became sick and could not preach for several days.

¹The MS Journal does not list a text. But this is a convenient place to list a sermon recorded in a manuscript volume by Samuel Roberts. Roberts dates the sermon as given in 1748 to the society in Leeds, but Wesley does not appear to have been in Leeds in either 1748 or 1749. Thus, this is as good of a guess as any for the date. For the text of the sermon, and more discussion, see Thomas R. Albin, "A New Sermon of the Rev. Charles Wesley as Recorded in an Early Methodist Manuscript," Proceedings of the Charles Wesley Society 11 (2006–7), 35–45.

²Scattered in Lancashire and Yorkshire, West Riding.

³A forest area in Derbyshire, between Sheffield and Manchester.

⁴Good Friday: "We had sweet fellowship with Him in his sufferings; and many cried after Him, being deeply wounded by his dying love."

⁵Easter.

⁶CW says this was the first watchnight held at the chapel.

⁷Originally the orchard of the Dominican Friary, in an area just south of the Horsefair in Bristol that came to be known as "Quakers Friars" because the estate became property of the William Penn family.

⁸Journal letter covering Aug. 24, 1747–Feb. 6, 1748 (MARC, DDCW 6/88a).

¹⁷In the last quarter of 1749 CW was caught up in and distressed by the “love triangle” between John Wesley, Grace Murray, and John Bennet. Charles intervened to prevent his brother from marrying Grace. His MS Journal makes clear that he was disinclined to preach much through this time of struggle.

¹⁸Letter to Sarah (Gwynne) Wesley, Oct. 12, 1749 (current location unknown; once at United Theological College, Sydney, Australia).

NOTE: His 1751 preaching tour convinced Wesley that he could not balance family responsibilities with such extended yearly excursions. From this point, he stayed closer to home, mainly going to London to provide oversight when John was on the road. After Charles's family moved to London in 1771, he made occasional similar trips back to Bristol. On a few occasions (like late 1756) John persuaded Charles to travel a bit more broadly, and some journal letters survive from these trips. Otherwise, our sources are limited largely to occasional letters that Charles wrote to his family when he was away from home, and some scattered second-hand reporters like the Bristol steward.

³Bristol steward diary, 101–3. “Mr Wesley was exceeding lively. His subject was, ‘The whole creation groaneth and traveleth in pain, waiting for the manifestation of the Sons of GOD. He first observed that the whole creation by the fall of man ~~was~~ is corrupted. Secondly, that it groaneth and waiteth in expectation of deliverance. Third, that it shall regain its primitive beauty, its original splendour, by the creation of the new heavens and earth: or the recreating these again.’”

¹Letter to Sarah (Gwynne) Wesley, [December 17, 1762 (?)] (MARC, DDCW 7/91). The letter is not dated and the postmark is incomplete. Frank Baker suggests the date given. Wesley says, "I have preached 3 times within 5 days. On Tuesday evening, at the Foundery on Looking unto Jesus."

²Letter to Sarah (Gwynne) Wesley, May 12, 1763 (MARC, DDCW 7/82).

³Likely Acts 1:4–5 or 2:37–39; this was in the context of controversy over Christian perfection in London.

⁴Letter to Sarah (Gwynne) Wesley, May 28, 1763 ? (MARC, DDCW 7/84).

⁵Letter to Sarah (Gwynne) Wesley, June 1, 1763 (MARC, DDCW 7/109).

⁶Letter to Sarah (Gwynne) Wesley, June 7, 1763 (owned by Mrs. E. Lawson, Plymouth; transcription by Frank Baker at Duke University).

⁵Letter to Sarah (Gwynne) Wesley, September 15, 1766 (MARC, DDCW 7/58).

⁶Manuscript journal (San Marino, California, The Huntington Library, Manuscripts, MS62593). The journal is anonymous, but obviously from Bath, and covers January-August 1769. It has been conclusively identified as that of Thomas Parsons, a Bath stonecarver. He was the son of the founding minister of the Bath [Particular] Baptist congregation. For February 19 it reads: "went and heard Charles Wesley from Isaiah." I owe this reference to Peter Forsaith.

⁷Ibid. "Went with my friend to the Countess's chapel, heard Charles Wesley from 8 Heb 10-11 but it is absolutely impossible to give any tolerable account of his sermon which was one of the worst I ever heard. I don't believe he thought before he mounted the throne." I owe this reference to Peter Forsaith.

⁸Charles preached and baptized Ephraim and Ancona Robin. See WHS 18 (1932): 124.

⁹John Wesley opened this new chapel on City Road on November 1, 1778.

¹⁰Letter to John Wesley, June 16, 1779, Arminian Magazine 12 (1789): 441-42.

¹¹Letter to John Wesley, November 28, 1779 (Bristol, Wesley College, D6/1/164). Charles was in Bristol to help address the challenge that Alexander McNab was raising to the authority of John Wesley in appointing traveling preachers.

¹²Letter to John Wesley, December 1, 1779 (London, Wesley's Chapel Museum).

¹³Letter to John Wesley, December 6, 1779 (MARC, DDWes 4/40).

¹“I prayed with the Preachers at the Chapel & charged them to keep the peace. I preached Peace & Charity, the one true Religion; & prayed earnestly for the trembling persecuted Catholics. Never have I found such love for them, as on this occasion: &, I believe, most of the Society are like-minded.” On June 2, 1780, George Gordon led nearly 60,000 persons to petition Parliament to repeal the Catholic Relief Act of 1778, which had permitted Roman Catholics to purchase and inherit land.
