The dissertation must be formatted consistently throughout the entire manuscript. Any material by the student that has been previously published and is approved by the dissertation committee for inclusion in the dissertation must conform to the format described in these guidelines.

USING MATERIALS COPYRIGHTED BY OTHERS
As the author of the manuscript, you will be asked to certify that any previously copyrighted material used in your work, beyond “fair use,” appears with the written permission of the copyright owner. Please refer to Copyright Law & Graduate Research: New Media, New Rights and Your Dissertation by Dr. Kenneth Crews. This booklet may be found on the ProQuest website: http://media2.proquest.com/documents/copyright_dissthesis_ownership.pdf.

For information on “When U.S. Works Pass in the Public Domain” please consult the following site: http://www.unc.edu/~undng/public-d.htm.

The United States Copyright Office is a valuable resource for answering questions you may have about previously published work: http://www.copyright.gov/.

Book and journal publishers normally hold the copyright for all materials they publish. Even if you are the sole author or one of several authors of material in a published book or journal, you must obtain written permission from the copyright holder if you are including this material in your dissertation. You are responsible for securing these permissions, paying any permission fees, and retaining copies of all permissions granted. Further instructions and a sample of the permission letter are given below.

MARGINS
Pages should have a portrait orientation with standard US dimensions of 8.5 x 11 inches. All pages in the dissertation must be formatted with at least a 1.5-inch margin on the left side and at least a 1-inch margin on the top, right side, and bottom. There must be at least a 1-inch margin beneath a page number at the bottom of the page. It is not necessary to right justify the text. All text in the dissertation, including footnotes, page numbers, tables, figures (illustrations), and figure legends, must fall within these margins.

FONT
Use a standard font, black in color and not overly ornamented, equivalent in scale to 12-point Times New Roman. This applies to all text including captions, footnotes, citations, etc. Field-specific norms for the transliteration of non-Roman scripts should be followed. Fonts (of adequate size) for non-Roman scripts may be used instead of transliteration, but usage should be consistent throughout the dissertation. Be sure to use embeddable Type 1 or TrueType fonts as all fonts used in the manuscript must be embedded in the pdf submitted to ProQuest.
SPACING
All text must be double spaced.
Exceptions: When an entry in the Table of Contents, List of Figures, or List of Tables is longer than one line, that entry is single spaced. When a chapter, section, or sub-section heading is longer than one line, that entry is single spaced. Bibliographic references and long quotes are single spaced but double spaced between entries. Single- or double-spacing may be used for tables and legends or captions for figures.

PAGE NUMBERS

FOOTNOTES
All footnotes must appear at the bottom of the page. Numbering of footnotes should start anew with Arabic numeral 1 at the beginning of each chapter. Footnotes must begin on the same page as the footnote number in the text, but they may continue onto the following page. Endnotes are not permitted.

FORMAT FOR CITATIONS, FIGURES, TABLES
Your dissertation should follow one of the formats outlined in the latest edition of A Manual for Writers of Term Papers, Theses, and Dissertations, by Kate L. Turabian (Chicago: The University of Chicago Press). If your dissertation includes tables or figures (illustrations), you must provide a List of Tables and a List of Figures following the Table of Contents. A figure or table may be inserted into the running text of the document or placed on a page by itself. The figure or table number and caption should appear beneath the item. All figures and tables must fall within the margins specified for the dissertation as a whole. Photographs may be scanned and inserted into the document; the Divinity School does not require original photographs to be used.

FIGURES AND TABLES WITH LANDSCAPE ORIENTATION

ABSTRACT
There is no length restriction on abstracts. In the abstract, you must (1) present the problem of the dissertation, (2) discuss the materials and methods used, and (3) state the conclusions reached. Individual chapters should not have abstracts. The Abstract will be published in Dissertation Abstracts International.
TABLE OF CONTENTS
The Table of Contents should help readers grasp the structure of the dissertation without drowning them in detail. It is not ordinarily helpful to list chapter divisions below the second level of subheadings in the Table of Contents. Headings (chapter titles, sections, subsections) should appear exactly as they are worded in the text, and a period leader should be inserted between each heading and its corresponding page number. See the template below for details.

BIBLIOGRAPHY
Compile a single bibliography for the entire manuscript; do not include a separate bibliography after each chapter. The bibliography should follow the appropriate field-specific format: e.g., SBL, MLA, Chicago, etc.

BIOGRAPHY
A brief biography, ordinarily not more than one page in length, appears at the very end of the dissertation. Your biography should include (1) place and date of birth, (2) colleges or universities attended with dates and degrees received, (3) titles of all books and articles published, and (4) a list of scholarships, fellowships, memberships in honorary societies, and academic honors received since obtaining the bachelor’s degree.

[Note: This form is reprinted from Copyright Law & Graduate Research: New Media, New Rights and Your Dissertation by Dr. Kenneth Crews.]

1. Be sure to include your return address, telephone and fax numbers, and date at the top of the letter.

2. Spare no effort in confirming the exact name and address of the addressee. Call the person to confirm the copyright ownership.

3. State clearly the name of your university and your dissertation’s title.

4. Describe precisely the proposed use of the copyrighted material. If necessary or appropriate, attach a copy of the quotations, diagrams, pictures, and other materials. If the proposed use is extensive, such as the general use of an archival or manuscript collection, describe it in broad and sweeping terms. Your objectives are to eliminate any ambiguities and to be sure the permission encompasses the full scope of your needs.

5. The sample signature form at the end of the sample letter is appropriate when an individual grants the permission. When a company, such as a publishing house, is granting permission, use the following signature format:

   By: __________________________________________________________

   Title: _________________________________________________________
